HERE AND THERE

with Fenwick Finch

Once again I had myself thanking Dr. Koval and the very efficient staff of the Minden Red Cross Hospital. This time I can add the names of Geo. "Hew" and "Deac" Jackson for the promptness in answering my ambulance call. When I realize now how close I was to Being gathered into "The Great Beyond" I fully appreciate the team work that made my survival possible.

I'd also like to thank those who were thoughtful enough to send cards, and telephone my wife, showing such an interest in my problem. This show of sympathy and understanding greatly assisted my wife, Mary, through the first few difficult days. So, we thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

After three weeks in the "Maternity Ward" of the hospital I was turned out with nothing to show for it. However, the way I look at it I followed a couple of good men: Gerald Finlay and Sam "Lucky" Welch and neither one of them came up with anything either. The last three days I spent in the hospital my room-mate was Ross Sawyer from Maple Lake area. Ross summed the situation up pretty well when he remarked, "If they're depending on the likes of us to increase the country's population then we're in trouble." Shortly after that Ross and I were turned loose to go home.

I don't have too much material at the present time so, you'll have to bear with me until I get in the swim again. "All I know is that 'Someone up there must like me' and I sure appreciate it."

I certainly had the "Best" of spiritual backing in the person of the Rev. Howard Best who bolstered my flagging will. Rev. Oake backed him up and my good friend, the Rev. Father Kaye completed those helping me. With that kind of backing a fellow couldn't help but come out on top.

One thing I noticed when I was in the hospital was the number of unthinking snowmobilers who travelled around and about the Hospital until all hours of the morning. When you think of the continuous noise these machines make you'd wonder at people being so thoughtless.

I've tried to find out why it is that these machines couldn't be "muffled" in some way to cut down the noise. There must be an anti-noise by-law on the books that could be enforced, if not, something should be done to control the noise in the hospital area.

I noticed that the dogs are still running around loose — maybe since it was Christmas nothing was done about the dogs. However, they should be checked before too long.

That's about it for now. Enjoy yourselves at the Winter Carnival this weekend and remember, drive carefully so that you will be around to enjoy the greatest gift you could have — your life.

See you next week.

HALIBURTON CARNIVAL DRAWS MANY VISITORS

Over 5,000 visitors invaded the village of Haliburton from Friday to Sunday evening for their annual Winter Carnival.

Chairman Art Ward of Wigwag Inn said the carnival was an overwhelming success with attendance much higher than last year. Chairing the program with Mr. Ward was Peter Curry of Cuts Motors.

The main attraction was the sled team derby as crack teams from the Northern Ontario Sled Dog Club and teams from upstate New York took part in the event. The initial events were on Saturday afternoon and the racing on Sunday afternoon with teams from New York sweeping the prizes.

After the dogs left for the first heat the large crowd of onlookers watched the Underwater Scuba Diving Demonstrations at Head Lake provided by the Ebbotby Underwater Club.

Saturday evening the Bobcaygeon Tug-Of-War beat the Haliburton Huskies 2 to 0 before 600 people in the broomball challenge match between Haliburton Freshwaters and the General Motors Maulers from Toronto. The Maulers won for the second year in a row, 5-4.

In the snowshoe racing David Mack of Haliburton was the winner and Stephen Lloyd of Haliburton was second place.

Six entered in the Carnival Queen contest at the high school Friday evening and the winner was Alexandra Young of Haliburton with princesses Glenda Cameron and Paula Mankinen of Haliburton.

They choose their own projects based on Health Service and Understanding and work from there. Mr. Black was warmly thanked by Cecil Irwin.

Mrs. Laura Kirkwood gave a vote of thanks from the women's behalf of all present for the fine work given by the 1969 executive. Mrs. Coburn also thanked her executive for the support she had received during her two years in office.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served.

COLD WEATHER SAFETY TIPS

There is always danger that an automotive battery may explode when using booster cables around it if the hookup is not made correctly.

Hydrogen is emitted through the vents in the cell caps. Any Electric spark can set off a powerful explosion, and electric sparks easily occur when making a connection to a battery. For safety: Remove the cell caps from both batteries, then attach the booster cables to the live battery. Next, connect the appropriate cable to the positive (plus) post of the dead battery.
Then, connect the second cable to a good ground spot such as the engine block rather than to the negative (minus) battery post so that any spark that occurs will not be near the battery. (National Safety Council).

A frozen car battery can be as dangerous as a bomb. A dead battery that has been weakened to one-quarter of its normal charge will freeze at zero, and a dead battery at 5 above. When ice prevents gases from escaping, a dangerous explosive mixture results and it needs only a touch of outside electrical current to burst, blasting off frozen chunks of battery solution that carry enough acid to burn skin and clothing. For safety: Disconnect the frozen battery and let it thaw in a warm place. Pushing or towing the car, or using a jumper cable from another battery may cause the battery to explode.
